It's Time for the Best!

We are coming back to school, back to the regular routine of fall and winter life and back to all the classes and clubs that we may have been skipping in the summer months. And, as we get back into the swing of things it's time to do your best at what you want to do. Why settle for just getting by? It's time for the best you've got.

My son is beginning his college life at Cal Poly SLO and as we watched the orientations and presentations for these incoming students one counselor made the comment that is the title for my newsletter. He furthered the statement by saying "If you start by doing your best you will find that settling for second best will not be an option. You make a habit of doing your best and there will be no need for regretting anything that you attempt in life. The outcome of doing your best will be your golden hour!"

I've watched so many of you over the years work painstakingly to make your gorgeous quilts, garments, and other projects using the best tools, the best threads and fabrics, and the uncompromising "duty to detail" that creates your very memorable results and I can't help but think that we can apply that analogy to anything we set out to do in life. I see the students who come back from sewing class with their projects completed and then go on to create a treasure of more work brought on by the hard work of the first. I read about the "best" ones who take their sewing the next level and are now teachers, designers, engineers, and creators of things that we all can admire.

So make your Fall your beginning to do your best work. We'll do our best to see you have the tools and supplies that match up to your golden standards.

Scott

It seems only natural that my teaching habit would go into the craft that gives me so much pleasure. How else will they be able to make their special look on a reasonable budget?"
